

Almost daily we are reminded that everything is transitory. Yesterday's world leaders are dying off, celebrated sports figures from our youth are now dealing with debilitating illnesses, and once fresh-faced celebrities are entering their senior years. Nothing in this world is permanent, and life continues to remind us of that truth.

All of this would be depressing if it were not for our faith in a God who is love. If we allow that love to grow in us, our lives will continue to have meaning and purpose no matter what is happening to our bodies.

Anyone who has sincerely tried to love without restrictions knows that this is a never-ending challenge and not for the faint of heart. However, even in the midst of turmoil, we can live with a sense of hope that no matter what befalls us, God's enduring love will have the final word.

Prayer of St. Francis
Lord, make me an instrument of your peace.
Where there is hatred,
let me sow love;
where there is injury, pardon;
where there is doubt, faith;
where there is despair, hope;
where there is darkness, light;
where there is sadness, joy.
Grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console;
to be understood as to understand;
to be loved as to love.
For it is in giving that we receive;
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned
and it is in dying
that we are born to eternal life.
